AGRIBUSINESS ECONOMICS

The Department of Agribusiness Economics offers exceptional graduate and undergraduate programs of study related to business and policy with a variety of customizable specializations.

Our courses teach students to skillfully combine sound economic and management principles with agricultural production policy and technology. Students receive instruction in domestic aspects of the agricultural economy as well as international trade.

Students make full use of our top-tier resources as they delve into the economics of natural resource management and figure out how to improve the production and distribution of food, fiber and bio-fuels.

Our dedicated and caring faculty provide students with excellent classroom instruction and exciting, hands-on opportunities for basic and applied research in the field. Students also receive one-on-one guidance from their faculty advisor to customize a course of study in order to meet their employment and educational goals.

Our graduates find rewarding careers in agriculture, rural development and natural resource/environmental policy.

There is one destination for every journey. Request more information to find out how the Department of Agribusiness Economics can give you the support you need to build the future of your dreams.
